

Client Note: Mitsubishi Materials investment in Elemental's US e-scrap platform

Published: 8 January 2026 | Author: David Daoud | Principal Analyst

Recent industry announcements indicate that Mitsubishi Materials has agreed to acquire a significant minority stake in Elemental Group's US e-waste platform, which operates through Colt Recycling. Mitsubishi Materials is a Japan-based nonferrous metals and materials group with significant copper and precious-metals smelting and recycling operations, including established E-Scrap processing capabilities. Elemental Group is a Poland-headquartered "urban mining" platform focused on recovering precious and strategic metals from electronics, catalysts, and batteries across multiple regions. Colt Recycling is Elemental's US electronics recycling and ITAD arm, operating certified processing facilities in the eastern and southern United States.

The transaction is being positioned as a strategic partnership intended to strengthen electronic scrap collection and pre-processing and to support ...
